pants in the annual four-day march. The transplantation of this unique sporting event from Holland to Israel has been as successful as the acclimatization of tulps, and in six short years it has become an Israel tra-dition.

ers have swelled from 2,000 in 1956 to an all-time high of 13,000 this year Each successive march has brought new groups of local entrant: and recently the event has begun to take on an international colouring. A spe-cial welcome will be ac-corded to the thirty blind marchers as well as to the overseas contingents which include groups from Holland and Switzerland, with one lone entrant from Den mark. Particular pleasure is afforded by the partici-pation of some 60 African students, who come Togo, the Malagasy come from Togo, the Malagasy Re-public, the Congo (Braz-zaville) and the Congo (Leopoldville), Liberia. Sierra Leone, Ghana and Nigeria.

The four-day march, which was introduced into Israel after the successful entry of a Nahal group in the Dutch event of 1955, has become a popular fixture rivalled only by general enthusiasm for amateur archaeology and Biblical knowledge link the nation's present with its past, so the four-day march kindles a love for and p h y si cal acquaintance with the countryside, and especially the ascent to Jerusalem.

The march has an added importance in that it is one of the few local events which, is free of competitive tension and completely outside of politics. The marchers' only continual pages and security. ful entry of a Nahal group in the Dutch event of 1955.

The marchers only contern is to finish the last lap of the course in as fresh a physical condition as possible. Anyone may join in who feels that his feet will carry him the required distance, and as a result the age groups range from the young in years to the very young in spirit. Although the technical arrangements for the march are in the hands of the Army and half the participants belong to the Gadna organization, there is nothing compulsory about it. The spirit of the march is one of enthusiastic volunteering and peaceful enjoyment.

ALMOGI PROMISES QUIET ELECTION CAMPAIGN

HAIFA.— "The basic insue is between those who inflate the "affair" and all that surrounds it on the one hand, and those who are concerned with the welfare of the State and Rs problems on the other," Mapai Secretary-General, Mr. Yosef Almogi, told a maeting of workers committees here last night.

The elections were not a disaster, he said even if held before their normal time. He dided, however, that the "affair" exploded after the Government had functioned normally for only seven months and said it was a crime to hold elections over such a matter. Mapai would wage a quiet campaign "without Zionist Party.

IL28m will be spent on housing in the young agricultural settlements. Another IL16m worth of housing will be built in the old-established settlements — half to be supplied by Hevrat Ovdim and Solel Boneh.

In answer to the accusation by Mr. Selig Lavon, head of the Histadrut's building company. Shikun Ovdim, that the Ministry was building luxury housing. Dr. Josephthal observed that only 150 flats in last year's programme of over 13,000 dwellings were more than $2 square metres in area. These are situated in the three ten-stops apartment houses, now under construction—two of them in Ramat.
